The two American deserters, Privates Kearns and Lawrence, who manned Mexican machine guns in Ojinaga during Tuesday's battle, crossed the border to-day and were arrested. Kearns said he was impressed into the Federal forces defending Ojinaga, where he served fifteen days.

Villa's mysterious disappearance following the battle of Parral last Acquist was explained to-day by First Captain José Jaurretta, of his general staff, who declared he had accompanied Villa on a three thousand mile trip from Parral through Durango, Zesteeas, San Luis Potosi and other Mexican states, to confer with chiefs regarding a new revolutionary more ment. EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 16.—A party of Americana, including a number of El Paso City firemen, was fired upon today by armed Mexicans while hunting on an island in the Rio Grande River near Fabens, Tex., thirty-five miles southeast of here. Jeff Glaves, of El Paso, was shot through both legs.

There were ten Americana in the party, according to their story. They were bunting on the island, when the Mexicans appeared, about 10 o'clock in the morning. J. H. Harris, an El Paso lawyer, said forty shots were fired at him. He was not wounded. He said the Mexicans appeared to be soldiers. Harris said the Americans did not return the firs. They rescued Glaves from where he was lying wounded in the water. In the fighting Jesse Manigold, one of the party, was overpowered and robbed of money and part of his clothing, it was said.

The party managed to make its way to a cavalry patrol camp, and the soldiers made a rush for the island, and the Mexicans dispersed into Mexico, thring as they ran. The island is American territory. Glaves was brought to Fort Bliss base hospital.
